

JUNLI

“Ride Like Lightning, Crash Like Thunder.”

Still taking film as the source of inspiration, JUNLI has made an unusual choice from the past for SS23. The Place Beyond the Pines directed by Derek Cianfrance is one of the most influential films to a close friend of Jun who passed away during the Covid lockdown in Shanghai. The SS23 collection will take a unique form to illustrate the fashion culture and the mutual resonance of the fatalities of the characters behind the film in memory of their friendship.

Derek is more of a character builder, rational and restrained. Rather than focusing on one concept, he starts with an incident and follows the characters' personalities unfold with the various tastes of their lives. Ryan Gosling's Luke, a stunt biker at the fairground, is a sad romantic, untethered, hopeless, loveless, and without a future. Luke's film looks are full of shades of 90's peak grunge style, and his passion for walking through the deep, dark pinewoods is a romanticism that oozes from the screen in violently shaky shots.

The core of Luke's identity is translated into sponge denim, painted dot print, tattered fabric patchwork, detachable printed scarves, cut-out jackets and other details incorporated into the collection. In contrast to previous seasons, this is a season full of confrontations between different elements, a plethora of rarely used casual sensibilities, loose silhouettes and new materials mixed into the previously strict design language, finding a balance of restrained aesthetics amid conflict.
